What is COAA?

Construction Owners Association of America is a professional organization providing Owners a unified voice in the construction process and the balance needed to level the construction triangle of Owner – Architect – Contractor. On the National level, COAA hosts two educational and leadership conferences annually. Membership includes both public and private Owners, and provides unequalled networking opportunities with peers. COAA's web site, topical library, and Owner-friendly contract documents offer both reference material and useful project tools that previously have been unavailable to Owners.
