Chief's Message

2006 was a busy year for the Peoria Police Department. The City of Peoria's population of 146,000 continues to grow at an accelerated rate, this year adding a new high school, businesses, entertainment areas and more housing. Increased growth has created a more vibrant and active City. It has also resulted in more citizens' calls for service and increased traffic. To meet our responsibility to expand police services throughout the City, we have reviewed our patrol schedules and made changes as necessary. We have received traffic grants to expand our traffic and DUI enforcement and we have aggressively utilized the funding provided by City Council for additional staff and resources.

Our newly created Commercial Enforcement Unit (CEU) has proven to be a successful response for the "entertainment area" to ensure that citizens and establishments conform to all laws and regulations that govern the sale and consumption of alcohol. They also ensure these areas remain safe for our residents and guests to visit and enjoy.

To reduce the increasing demands on patrol officer time, City Council supported our request to fund an alternative reporting program. The Police Department is now able to handle some citizen requests for service by telephone. During 2006, 3,695 calls for service were handled by a small staff of part-time and full-time employees, resulting in 2,330 reports being written. This program has allowed patrol officers to handle higher priority calls and to patrol neighborhoods, parks and businesses.

During the year, the Department underwent an extensive review of its policies, procedures and day-to-day operations by a team of outside police executives. As a result, the Department was re-accredited for the third time since its initial accreditation in 1997 by the Commission on Accreditation for Law Enforcement Agencies (CALEA), an international non-profit organization created to ensure that law enforcement agencies maintain the highest standards.

2006 has been a year to heal and celebrate. In December 2005, Officer Bill Weigt was severely injured in the line of duty when he and others attempted to apprehend a homicide suspect. During the year, Officer Weigt struggled to return to the job he loved and, despite being paralyzed from the chest down, he was able to return to the Department in December 2006 – just one year after his injury. An incident such as this characterizes a department's professionalism and caring. Throughout the year, members of the Department and the community came together to support Officer Weigt and his family and to celebrate his return as a member of the Peoria Police Department.

2006 ended as a year of transition and change for the Department. In October, Chief David Leonardo announced his retirement after six years of service to the Department and the community. Leadership changes in any organization are inevitable. The foundation of a strong police department has been established and it is now the responsibility of the members of the Department to meet the challenges of the future.

Over the past months, I have heard many words of praise about the great works of our employees. Often the praise is the result of a seemingly little thing, an act of kindness by a desk officer, compassion given a crime victim by an officer or comforting words from a communications specialist. It's the little things that identify the Peoria Police Department as a special organization made up of very special people.

Acting Police Chief Larry Ratcliff

Support Division

Commander's Message

Commander
Scott Lekan
Division Commander

Support Division handles a wide range of activities that support the Department's operations.

The division handles:

- Intelligence/Homeland Security
- Communications
- Technical Services
- Staff Services

The Support Division plays one of the most vital roles in the delivery of police services to the community. The contact a citizen makes with the Police Department starts with that initial call to 911 or the general service phone line. The Communications Bureau is responsible for managing those calls that are received and dispatching officers in the field to the needs of our citizens.

Upon completion of the call for service and when the police officer generates a report, the Technical Services Bureau manages the flow of those police reports to the appropriate areas of responsibility and/or another governmental agency. The Technical Services Bureau has been working to automate the processing of reports as well as property and evidence. This automation can be seen through the use of computers in patrol cars which allow officers to receive calls for service in their vehicle and complete reports electronically.

The Staff Services Bureau handles the recruitment and hiring process for all new employees, international accreditation through CALEA (Commission on Accreditation for Law Enforcement Agencies) and training of employees.

No matter what the nature of the police services you receive, the vast majority start and end in the Support Division. The link between the police and the community to ensure an outstanding quality of life in Peoria is dependent upon the efforts of the outstanding men and women of this division.

Sgt. Mike Ashley

Range / Armory

- As reported by the FBI 60% to 80% of all lethal force encounters that officers must face occur in low-light conditions. In 2006 Peoria Police Officers conducted 8 hours of low-light operations training. This training consisted of class room instruction, live-fire range drills, as well as dynamic force on force scenarios which tested officer's judgment and actions under low-light conditions.
- In 2006 the Peoria Police Department added 12 additional Urban Patrol Rifles. These rifles allow officers to operate at extended distances, defeat body armor that suspects wear, and rapidly stop violent subjects that are threatening the lives of others. The Peoria Police Department also conducted two Urban Patrol Rifle certification classes for its officers to support the utilization of these vital tools.
- Not every threat that officers face is a deadly threat. In 2006, multiple officers were also certified in the utilization of the less lethal Pepper Ball system and less lethal stun bag. The Pepper Ball system fires a small projectile that contains a very concentrated form of pepper spray (O.C.). The Stun bag is a less lethal system that deploys a small kinetic energy round, sometimes referred to as a flex-baton.

MILO "Shoot - don't shoot" system is used by Sgt. Mike Ashley.

Upon arriving, officers crossed paths with the suspect whose vehicle was fleeing the scene. After a brief pursuit, the suspect vehicle and several of our units came to a stop in the middle of the roadway at 8800 W. Olive Avenue. As the suspect exited his vehicle, he began firing a hand gun. Although our officers shot and killed the suspect, one of his rounds struck Officer Weigt just above his vest, resulting in a spinal cord injury. Officer Bill Weigt returns to work!

On December 4th, Officer Bill Weigt was greeted as he returned to work less than one year after he was shot and paralyzed by a murder suspect on December 17, 2005. Bill's recovery has been an inspiration to everyone he meets but even more so to the members of the Peoria Police Department.

That December morning in 2005 changed the Peoria Police Department forever and Bill's recovery and return to work has helped heal many wounds.

First pitch ceremony– March 23, 2006 Diamondbacks/Mariners Spring Training

Luis Gonzalez named Honorary Peoria Police Officer

After Bill Weigt was shot, former Arizona Diamondbacks outfielder Luis Gonzalez found out that Bill was a huge baseball fan and an even bigger Luis Gonzalez fan. Luis made numerous visits to Bill while he was in the hospital, made several appearances at benefit events and caught the first pitch at a Seattle Mariners/Arizona Diamondbacks Spring Training Game in 2006 that was thrown out by Bill's son.

On June 14 in a surprise ceremony at the Peoria Public Safety Administration Building, Luis Gonzalez was made the first Honorary Peoria Police Officer for his support of Bill and the friendship they have developed which is still going strong today.
