How it began...

When the San Diego Padres and Seattle Mariners announced plans to locate their training facilities in Peoria, it capped over two years of negotiations among the teams, City of Peoria, Peoria Economic Development Group, Maricopa County Stadium District Advisory Board and Maricopa County Flood Control District. In 1994, both teams signed 20-year leases with the City of Peoria, assuring the future stability of the entire Cactus League. Peoria Sports Complex was the first two-team Spring Training facility, which other stadiums were modeled after.

What do we do after Spring Training season?

This is the number one question we are asked. Peoria Sports Complex is not only a site for Major League Baseball's Spring Training, but also the Mariners and Padres player development systems. After Spring Training season, the complex facilitates extended Spring Training, Arizona Summer League and Arizona Instructional League baseball. Local youth baseball organizations, Arizona Fall League, Men's Senior Baseball League, National Adult Baseball Association, Arizona Baseball Academy, USA Junior Olympic Baseball Championships and City of Peoria's recreational baseball programs also use the facility throughout the year.

There's a lot more than just baseball here. In any given year, the complex hosts a variety of other events including concerts, automobile shows, RV sales, home and garden expos, arts and crafts festivals, charity events and private functions.
